

EVERY CHILD DESERVES A FIGHTING CHANCE

Children raised by parents without health insurance coverage have an increased risk of living with chronic diseases in adulthood.

AMERICAN JOURNAL OF PREVENTIVE MEDICINE 2010

At Charles Drew Health Center (CDHC) we believe “every child deserves a fighting chance” to be healthy into adulthood. Your tax-deductible 2012 Annual Sustaining Campaign (ASC) contribution will help Charles Drew Health Center provide quality affordable health care for families in need.

Consider the following facts:

- Children whose parents are uninsured are more likely to experience access barriers when seeking health care.
- Children whose parents are uninsured are more likely to not have an identified medical home.
- Children whose parents are uninsured generally haven't seen a physician in over a year or a dentist in two or more years.
- Uninsured parents are more likely to delay medical care for their children even when their children have child-only health insurance coverage.
- Uninsured parents often chose to forego health care to meet other demands like rent, food, and other household expenses— thus putting their health at risk and plunging their family further into debt.

Help our children beat the health care challenges of tomorrow. Make a contribution today!
